Dated: Jun 10, 2010

In a completely unexpected announcement True North Training Solutions Announced this morning that they would begin expanding their published information throughout unique areas of the Internet.

In an effort to expand the amount of quality information available to the "average" internet reader the Administration at True North Training Solutions has determined to start posting their unique solutions in various outlets throughout the internet.

State Master Trainer Jerome Hess, "We found that as we readied our FOURTH book for publication that there is more and more research and quality information than we can realistically teach within our classes and Company Blog. Therefor we will seek out good free areas that we can post our curriculum's, or parts of them for folks from all over the world to access."

Further Mr. Hess stated that although his team is searching out quality sights for their articles he would welcome requests for submissions as well. However at this time custom submission would be dealt with on a first come first serve basis.

For their initial entry you will be able to locate a great deal of their information at their Blog site, available from their master menu at <http://www.TrueNorthTrainingSolutions.com> as well as at the Artlib.org sight. You can search for the author or go directly to a posting such as: <http://artilb.org/20019665-direct-mail-tips-and-ideas.html>

"We are excited to be utilizing more and more of the WEB2.0 abilities, even if our ideas may date back to quill and parchment concepts!" Jerome said with a smile
